SELLING STUDEBAKERS

PACKER & ROMAN HAVE GREAT CONFIDENCE IN THEIR VISION OF THE FUTURE

It wasn't merely because they wanted to sell automobiles that Stephen C. Packer and John Roman got together and formed what is now known as the Packer & Roman Auto Co. That wasn't, so to speak, the motor. What they wanted to do was to sell Studebakers, and Studebakers only. They had given the field more than the "once over," and the result was a conclusion. For the price, the Studebaker just about took the honors, in their judgment, and their judgment covered something rather more than the price. But the price and that something settled the question. Then who hasn't heard of old man Studebaker, who used to make the wagons that would rattle over the worst kind of country roads, take the "fambly" to kirk and market, take anything anywhere, and still be fit and serviceable? The old man stood for more than merely his whiskers—and he stood for a good deal, too, when it came to whiskers, more than most of us will in these days, when personal appearance makes opinion, though not necessarily the man. It may have been that Studebaker merely overlooked his personal appearance, was too busy making wagons—but he never overlooked anything in them. It is a long jump from a simple country wagon to a six-cylinder touring car, or a seven-passenger limousine, glittering in the sunshine as it spins along the highway, but a Studebaker is still a Studebaker.

To Packer and Roman the Studebaker is the greatest Roman of them all. Would you be interested in hearing about its virtues, as Packer and Roman see them. See Packer, or see Roman. Either can tell you, and if you would like to look into the future a piece, either will pull aside the veil for you.

In his quiet moments, Packer's meditations take only one direction, or, rather, he contemplates a scene—a scene still to be produced. It is a scene of many roads and of much variety, but all are instinct with the Studebaker. Here are four- and six-cylinder touring cars standing up gallantly on a stiff grade; there on another road are seven-passenger touring sedans, moving along as if they moved on air; these are followd by six-cylinder seven-passenger limousines, by coupes and landaus, an unending procession, coming and going, until the very air seems to vibrate with their movement. Then there are the roadsters, shooting along to beat the band, and the passengers having the time of their lives, and last of the commercial cars, speeding on their way to deliver milady's newly finished gown, or mi-gentleman's purchase in shirts, or speeding back to make more deliveries—and all for owners of Studebakers and their nearest relatives.

Will Packer and Roman ever live to see that scene realized? Ask Packer and Roman, and they will give you an object lesson in the confidence that never wavers. For they see not only Studebakers, they see besides, and dominating the scene, a vision of the old man with his whiskers—and that is enough. Studebaker will be the name of the country after a while. Ask Packer and Roman.

MUSIC RECITAL

The musical given Tuesday evening at the First Methodist church by Phoebe Ara Bowler and her pupils was an entertainment of high order and exhibited to the large audience present not only the rare musical knowledge and attainments of this gifted young pianiste, but also what is equally important, the gift of imparting this knowledge to others. The performance last evening of Miss Bowler's pupils were certainly a credit to both instructor and pupils.

The opening number, a duet by Miss Edith Way and Miss Anita Bailey, was well rendered by these young ladies. The piano solos by Miss Edith Way and Miss Madaline Thompson were also given in a very pleasing manner. The soprano solo by Marian June Bowler, the talented sister of Miss Bowler, was one of the enjoyable features of the evening. The numbers given by little Jewell Bennett, one of Miss Bowler's most talented pupils delighted the audience. Robert Thompson, another promising pupil, rendered two numbers very creditably.

Part two of the program was given by Mr. William Brandt, the well-known brilliant young baritone, and Miss Phoebe Ara Bowler, both musicians of the rarest gifts.

REV. ISAAC WARD, D. D.

DIRECTOR OF MEN'S WORK FOR THE BILLY SUNDAY CAMPAIGN

Who arrived in Los Angeles from the East this p. m., will be the speaker at the Union, Men's Bible Class Banquet at the First M. E. church Thursday evening.

It is owing to pressing engagements in connection with the final arrangements for the meetings that are to commence in the Great Tabernacle next Sunday, that George Sunday was obliged to forego the pleasure of coming to Glendale Thursday evening.

However, in cancelling his date, he has selected for us, in Dr. Ward, a man who is more familiar with the Men's Work, in which we are especially interested at this time, and he will give us an address that will excel what we could get from any other source.

It is hoped that every man of Glendale, Tropico and Casa Verdugo who can possibly do so, will come to this meeting Thursday evening. If any can not come in time for the social hour at the Banquet and participate in the enjoyment of the good things the "Ladies Aid" provide, then by all means come in time to hear the speaker give his inspiring address.

It will be in the social hall of the church, 6:45 for eating; about 8:00 for the speaking only. Thirty-five cents for the Banquet. Tickets can be secured from Mr. Ed. M. Lee at First National Bank or at the Banquet room. No charge for those who come for the speaking only.

ARTHUR G. LINDLEY,
Pres. Brotherhood First M. E. Church.

SEVEN YEARS OLD

Little Miss Ruth Bender, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Bender, of 811 Cameron place, arrived at the dignity of seven years Tuesday, August 28, and entertained a number of her little friends in honor of the occasion. Mrs. Bender chaperoned the guests at a matinee party at the Palace Grand in the afternoon and following this all enjoyed games at the home of the hostess, where decorations of pink and white lent a festive air. A beautiful white birthday cake with seven pink candles was the crowning feature of the supper served at a table adorned with dainty baby roses. The guests who enjoyed this happy affair were Misses Sarah Meek, Marian and Alice Duey, Helen, Frances and Carroll Paine, Dorothy Luchenbash and Louise Bender.

APPEAL FOR WARM CLOTHING

Mrs. George D. Carter, chairman of knitting of the local Red Cross Chapter, has received a second communication from headquarters in regard to knitted sets. California has been called upon for 52,500 sets, each containing 1 sleeveless sweater, 1 pair socks, 1 pair wristlets, 1 muffler, and Glendale's assignment is fifty sets. A cablegram from Major Grayson says: "Last winter broke the record for cold and misery among the people here (France). Inexpressible dread coming winter finding us without supplies to meet situation. Urge you on behalf of our soldiers and those of our allies who will suffer in their frozen trenches and also thousands of French and Belgian refugees and repatriates being returned through Switzerland to France. Everyone here looks to America. Begin shipping at once, 1,500,000 each of warm woolen articles already requested. They must come before cold weather, and in view of shortage of fuel and other discomforts, they will be of incredible value in both military and civilian work."

SMALL TRAVELERS

It was a long way from San Antonio, Texas, to Glendale, California, but four litle travelers made the trip unattended, arriving safely at the home of their grandmother, Mrs. H. P. Jones, on North Louise street. The four brave young travelers are Oliver Mates, aged nine, Stella Mates, aged seven, Devert Mates, aged four, and Emma Mates, aged three. On account of the illness of the mother, the father was unable to accompany them, but Oliver, the oldest, who is very small of his age, looked after the younger brother and sisters in a manner which aroused the admiration of their fellow passengers. Oliver says they were very nice to him and one man gave him a dollar for the excellent care he gave his charges.

GERMANY MAKES CONCESSIONS TO ARGENTINA

SURRENDERS THE SAME PRINCIPLES AS TO NEUTRALS' RIGHTS THAT SHE REFUSED UNITED STATES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

BUENOS AIRES, August 29.—Germany surrendered to Argentina precisely the same principle as to neutrals' rights in the submarine zone that she refused to surrender to the United States. Germany's complete backdown in her latest note to Argentina is regarded as highly significant that Germany fears a further alignment of powers against her. Some circles regard this as a deliberate backdown in order to complicate the Argentine situation with the Allies.

GLENDALE CHAPTER

RED CROSS HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING OF COMMITTEE HEADS

By Walt. Le Noir Church, Pub. Com.

Last evening an informal but most interesting meeting of the Executive Board of the Glendale Chapter was held at the home of its chairman, Mr. John Hyde Braly, 205 North Brand boulevard. Those present were Chairman Braly, Vice-Chairman McCrea, F. H. Vesper, treasurer, Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, secretary, Miss Ida D. Myers, corresponding secretary, Mrs. George Carter, Knitting Committee, Mrs. Tuffts, Bandage Committee, Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, Nurse's training Com.; Dr. Henry R. Harrower, Entertainment Committee, Mr. A. T. Cowan, General Advisory Committee, and Walt. Le Noir Church, Publicity Committee.

The chairman, Mr. Braly, stated that this special meeting was called not so much because of urgent business as for the pleasure it gave him and others of the Executive Board to meet and talk over Red Cross matters in which they all felt such a deep and abiding mutual interest, always so harmoniously expressed.

The Red Cross work, an important part of the most important world work, was prospering in Glendale, and it would be interesting to hear about the new headquarters. Besides, Mrs. Braly, who was with them for a few minutes, wished to tell them something on her own account, which he heartily endorsed in advance.

Mrs. Braly said she was particulary glad to be with them and she did have something which it gave her great pleasure to say. It seems she has been cultivating a number of very fine ducks, which are now fully ripe and ready to be harvested. So those present and a few others will be invited to meet at her home in the near future, to share in an old-fashioned, informal "duckfest," something seldom encountered these days in the Golden West.

She then excused herself, amid enthusiastic applause.

Rev. McCrea and Dr. Harrower reported the welcome fact that permanent headquarters had been secured for the Glendale Red Cross Chapter, that is, presumably permanent, though possibly only "perma-

A number of the members of the Glendale Y. P. B. will attend the State Convention of the Young Peoples Branch of the W. C. T. U., which meets at Long Beach, August 30 and 31. A fine program has been prepared and several of the young people of Glendale have places on the program. Miss Eliabeth Mottern and Miss Faith Tarling, piano, and Miss Evangeline Quackenbush, violin, will present several numbers. Those who will be in attendance are Mrs. G. H. Rowe and Mrs. J. A. Quackenbush, W. J. Richards, the Misses Vivian Engle, Mabel Robbins, Eusebia Farrand, Evangeline Quackenbush, Faith Tarling, Hazel Walters, Emma Esterly, Helen Esterly, Hattie Beckman and Elizabeth Mottern.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jenkins entertained on Wednesday with a farewell dinner in honor of their house guests, Mrs. J. Muir and daughter Louise, who left Thursday for their home in Saline, Mich., after a visit of some weeks with Mrs. Muir's sister, Mrs. Jenkins.

The dinner was the finale of a number of social affairs and pleasant outings enjoyed during their stay in Glendale. Asters from the hostess' garden centered the table. The guests entertained on this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Green and Miss Eva Green, Mr. E. A. Green, Mrs. Harriet Pittman, and Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Hoover of Ocean Park, and the honored guests, Mrs. J. Muir and Miss Louise Muir.

TROPICO ELECTION TO-DAY

The election being held in Tropico to-day, to decide the question of annexation to Los Angeles, will probably bring out the full voting strength of the city. There is keen interest in the result, and both sides are doing their utmost to line up their forces.

The voting strength of Tropico is 1400 votes, and up to noon 450 had cast the ballot. So far as the Evening News could gather, the voting was strongly against annexation.

The Los Angeles Tax Budget, which has just come out, shows the Los Angeles tax rate to be $1.52, while that of Tropico is $1.21.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 29, 1917

DEMAND FOR MORE AND BETTER DWELLING HOUSES

It is a common complaint these days among the real estate men of Glendale that they have a constant demand for homes to rent, furnished and unfurnished, but that they are not to be had. The few that are to be had are unsuitable, or they are too far away from the center of the city, and the demand appears to be generally for the better quality of houses. Only a few days ago a real estate man told a representative of the Evening News that as many as half a dozen would be in his office at one time, and all of them seeking houses to rent, and after doing what he could for them, was compelled to disappoint the whole half dozen. Other real estate men have related the same story, with variations.

It is a fact, well known to certain business interests here other than the real estate men, that people are constantly coming to Glendale with the intention of locating here, and have abandoned their purpose only after they had found it impossible to find suitable dwellings.

Here then is an excellent opportunity for enterprise, for an investment that should bring satisfactory returns. The demand, it appears, is largely for bungalows, for five-and six-room houses with modern conveniences, and according to experience in the larger cities, these are the class of houses that are seldom vacant.

Glendale is as yet chiefly a residental city and may so remain, an attractive city of homes for those whose business or work is in Los Angeles. But Glendale can never expect to grow as it should, as its attractions would warrant, if it has not the houses that would be occupied by those who desire to come here. There is an opportunity, even a crying need, of houses of the class generally in demand and the supply should not be limited to bungalows and five-and six-room houses. There should be a field here, at the present time, as there certainly will be in the near future, for apartment houses, at a moderate rent, at a percentage on the investment that should return the amount within a comparatively few years, and in a city like Glendale there should be no difficulty in finding those to undertake an enterprise that will bring them improved returns with the passage of the years.

WHAT THE GOVERNMENT ASKS OF THE PRESS

The desires of the Government, with respect to the concealment from the enemy of military policies, plans, and movements, are set forth in the following specific requests. They go to the press of the United States directly from the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy, and represent the thought and advice of their technical advisers.

For the protection of our military and naval forces and of merchant shipping it is requested that secrecy be observed in all matters of:

1. Information in regard to the train or boat movement of troops. Such information is at all times and under all circumstances dangerous and should be scrupulously avoided.

2. Information tending directly or indirectly to disclose the number or identity of troops in the expeditionary forces abroad.

3. Information tending to disclose the names of line officers in expeditionary forces and reference to individual units of these forces. Only names of staff officers are permissible.

4. Information calculated to disclose location of the permanent base or bases abroad.

5. Information that would disclose the location of American units or the eventual or actual position of the American forces at the front.

6. Information of the movement of military forces toward seaports or of the assembling of military forces at seaports from which inference might be drawn of any intention to embark them for service abroad; and information of the assembling of transports or convoys; and information of the embarkation itself.

7. Information of the arrival at any European port of American war vessels, transports, or any portion of an expeditionary force, combatant or noncombatant, until announcement is authorized by the Secretary of War or the Secretary of the Navy.

8. Information of the time of departure of merchant ships from European ports or after their arrival indicating, or hinting at, the port at which the ship arrived.

10. Information as to convoys and as to the sighting of friendly or enemy ships, whether naval or merchant.

1. Information of the locality, number, or identity of warships belonging to our own Navy or to the navies of any country at war with Germany. Papers published in ports should with especial care refrain from giving information to enemy agents in regard to ships stationed or calling at such ports. Because dangerous news is known locally, it does not follow that it can be safely published. Nonpublication of dangerous news obliges the enemy to rely on spies actually in the localities concerned, thus adding difficulties and delay in its transmission.

12. Information of the identities of American merchant ships defending themselves against submarines, and the identities of their captains, their gun crews, and crews. No matter from which side of the ocean comes the news, it is asked that this information be withheld from publication. Editors will appreciate the importance of co-operation to withhold from the enemy such information as might expose the officers and men of merchant ships to the danger of cruel and outrageous reprisal.

13. Information of the coast defenses of the United States. Any information of their very existence, as well as the number, nature, or position of their guns, is dangerous.

14. Information of the laying of mines or mine fields or of any harbor defenses.

15. Information of the aircraft and appurtenances used at Government aviation schools for experimental tests under military authority.

16. Information of all Government experiments in war material.

17. Information of secret notices issued to mariners or other confidential instructions issued by the Navy or the Department of Commerce relating to lights, lightships, buoys, or other guides to navigation.

18. Information as to the number, size, character, or location of ships of the Navy or of the merchant marine, ordered laid down at any port or shipyard, or in actual process of construction; or information that they are launched or in commission.

19. Information relating to dry docks and to all classes of work, repairs, alterations, or construction performed in connection therewith.

20. Information of the train or boat schedules of traveling official missions in transit through the United States.

21. Information of the transportation of munitions, or of war material.

Photographs. Photographs conveying the information specified above should not be published.

These requests go to the press without larger authority than the necessities of the war-making bodies. Their enforcement is a matter for the press itself. To the overwhelming proportion of newspapers, who have given unselfish, patriotic adherence to the voluntary agreement, the Government extends its gratitude and high appreciation.

RED CROSS NOTES

The American Red Cross has perfected plans to care for Americans who may be captured and held in German prison camps. A Prisoners' Relief Committee has been organized at Berne, Switzerland, under the supervision of Ellis L. Dresel, of the American Legation. Mr. Dresel served from the outbreak of the war in 1914 up to our breaking off diplomatic relations as an attache of the American Embassy at Berlin, where his duties included relief work for men of the Entente nationalities in German prison camps.

To-day only about one hundred American prisoners are held in Germany. Most of these are civilians taken off American merchantmen that have been sunk by Teuton submarines. More recent arrivals in the prison camps had served as gun crews, since the arming of our merchant ships.

Speedy provision for their relief and for those who may be taken prisoner is necessitated by the German policy of giving their prisoners of war food totally inadequate to keep men in good health. The extremely high death rate among Russian Serbian and Roumanian prisoners in Germany and Austria (30% in the case of the Roumanians) has been largely due to the inability of Russia and the Balkan states to organize the rationing of prisoners of their nationalities from their home countries.

A recent cable dispatch from Paris tells of a French soldier just back from a German prison camp and in the last stage of tuberculosis. This soldier was one of a battalion of a thousand young and healthy men captured in a body, early in the war. More than fifty per cent. of the number are now dead, or have been returned to France, via Switzerland, as incurables.

Malnutrition, no less than unsanitary conditions, produces these results. British, Canadian and Australian prisoners of war in Germany now depend exclusively upon food shipped to them from London, and generally give the prison camp ration to prisoners of other countries, who are, as a rule, less well provided. Bread is already being dispatched from Berne to the Americans in Germany, and arrangements have also been made for transmitting letters and money from their families and friends in this country.

Thus far only bread has been supplied by the Berne Committee of the American Red Cross. Assorted food parcels and clothing will also be forwarded soon. In the meantime the Central Prisoners of War Committee of London is acting on behalf of American prisoners in Germany, sending them such foods as the Committee regularly despatches to British and colonial prisoners.

By arrangement with Germany, these food parcels are sent to the prisoners three times a fortnight. The parcels supplement the bread which is also regularly supplied, and each of them contains ten pounds of meat, butter, sugar, jam, coffee or tea, salt, rice, and dried fruit. The American Red Cross is forwarding to Berne stocks of the same foodstuffs, as well as cheese, evaporated milk, codfish, and mixed biscuit. Tinned goods cannot be sent to prisoners, for Germany has made over the tin containers as hand grenades.

Ninety-five per cent. of the British packages sent into Germany, with postal card reecipts to be mailed back by the prisoner, have been duly receipted for. The American Red Cross, also, will enclose postal cards, as a means of making sure that American prisoners do actually receive the food parcels.

Miss Frances Jellineck, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Williams of 1507 Ivy street, left over the Santa Fe for New York City last Saturday to join a musical company which operates over the International Circuit. Miss Jellineck's mother is with a dramatic company on the same circuit.

Miss Phoebe Ara Bowler and her mother and sister, Mrs. Clara Bowler and Miss Marian Bowler, were the house guests of Mrs. W. F. Noyes, 108 North Kenwood avenue, Tuesday. In the evening Miss Bowler and her pupils presented the program of the concert given at the First Methodist church.

Mrs. C. E. Meyer, daughter of Mrs. A. Heisler, of 329 Orange street, is expected to arrive from Chicago about September 1, where she has been spending several months. Mrs. Meyer is thoroughly tired of the Windy City, and is looking forward with much pleasure to her return to Southern California.

Mrs. H. D. Goss was the hostess Tuesday at an informal little luncheon given at her home, 714 West Fifth street. The complimented guests were Mrs. Goss' assistants in the beginners department of the First Methodist Sunday School. The table was prettily decorated in pink. The guests were Mrs. P. A. Olson, Mrs. W. G. Peart and Miss Cora Bracewell.

A moonlight picnic and boating party was enjoyed Tuesday evening at Echo Park by the young ladies composing Prof. Harry L. Howe's class of the First Presbyterian Sunday School. Mrs. Howe and little daughter Edith accompanied the party and all had a most delightful time. The young ladies who participated in the outing were the Misses Alice McCoy, Esther Sinclair, Ruth Hall, Marian Carmichael, Gladys Lampert and her house guest, Miss Lina Couch of Los Angeles, Mildred Carmichael, Mae Lyons and Winnie Sinclair.

Miss Frances Parke, of Downey, Cal., left for her home Tuesday after a week's visit at the home of Mrs. M. E. Neil, 427 South Kenwood street.

Dr. and Mrs. Colin Cable, of 755 South Columbus avenue, are entertaining as their dinner guest Wednesday evening, Mr. L. W. Hathaway of Los Angeles.

A mass meeting will be held at the Christian Church Wednesday evening at 7:45 to outline special work for the Billy Sunday campaign. All members are expected to be present.

Mrs. A. M. Beamon has been seriously ill at her home, 245 South Maryland street, for the past ten days and is still confined to her bed, suffering from nervous prostration with other complications.

Sherman, who opened an artistic tailoring establishment a few days ago on Broadway, at the corner of Maryland, reports that he is already receiving gratifying orders from the people of Glendale. "I have confidence in the people of Glendale," Mr. Sherman said to-day, "and I am here to stay because of that confidence. I am anxious to show them what I can do, and when they have seen what I can do, the business will take care of itself."

A letter from Chas. Fromm, U. S. Navy, to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fromm, 249 East Third street, dated from the flagship Brooklyn, Asiatic squadron, and mailed at Yokahama, contains the interesting information that each member of the crew of the Brooklyn has received as a present from the Emperor of Japan, a fine silk handkerchief. The letter also contains a request for news from Glendale. To this request Mrs. Fromm will comply by sending him the Glendale Evening News.

Mrs. J. King, of 320 Orange street, yesterday entertained guests from Los Angeles and Corona at luncheon. In the evening she entertained Mrs. Charles L. Evans and Miss Charlotte Evans, of 323 Orange street, at dinner, on the occasion of their moving to Los Angeles, to be gone a year or more. Pressure of legal business compels Mr. Evans to remain in his office in Los Angeles to late hours, and so it has been decided to remove there to be more convenient for Mr. Evans, and to rent their Glendale home during the period of their absence.

There is increased activity in bank deposits and also in withdrawals in Glendale. The latter means that more money is going into circulation, that the steady confidence has increased with the approach of the fall, and that in the near future enterprise will be more active and general. During the summer season that is closing Glendale, as usual, has held its own with any of the surrounding cities, and surpassed some in stability and summer activity, and this may also be applied to Los Angeles, in proportion. Glendalians have every reason to look forward with confidence to the coming fall and winter.

MILFORD AVENUE SINGLE TAX MEETING

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Merrick of 1432 Milford avenue will open their home to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock to the single taxers of Glendale and all inquiring friends. Many of the latter, having voted at the dictates of the banks, corporations and land speculators, from lack of a true understanding of the movement, have since had lurking suspicions that they were buncoed.

They have begun to reflect that our present system involves a steady rise in land values from decade to decade, sometimes from year to year. The thought occurs to them, how will the children now in school be able to make their way when land for business, agricultural or home purposes is far greater than it is now? Shall the bulk of the children now in the schools be to-morrow the slaves of the few whose parents have bought up the land to-day? They are studying this problem from different viewpoints.

This is a universal movement, touching every one in its readjustments and actually benefitting all. Last year it polled over 260,000 votes in California. This new campaign has now secured 40,000 signatures.

Luke North, manager of last year's campaign, who has recently returned from the National Great Adventure convention at Atlantic City and a tour of the eastern cities in its interest, will be the first speaker. Rev. N. J. Wright, a gifted and powerful speaker and radical, will follow. After the addresses questions and general discussion will ensue.

Mrs. Vivian R. Webb will give piano numbers. Elizabeth Webb will sing.

Everybody is cordially invited.

MRS. LONA INGHAM ROBINSON.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., August 29.—Dozens of school boys and girls of Los Angeles county have enrolled in the vocational contests of the state fair to be held this fall at Sacramento. Particularly popular has been the pig raising contest, for which the reward will be a substantial cash prize, as well as the profit which naturally comes to the person who successfully guides a nice little piggy through the stages of growth into a big fat hog.

HAPPENINGS IN STATE

STATE CIVIL SERVICE TO CONSIDER SALARY INCREASES TWICE A YEAR

SACRAMENTO, Cal., August 29.—Due to the overwhelming requests that constantly are being made by the heads of the state department for salary increases for employees, the state civil service commission and the state board of control have decided to consider salary increases only twice a year hereafter, namely: December 1 and June 1. "The requests and recommendations from department heads have necessitated weekly consideration," said J. C. Whitman, secretary of the civil service commission,' and are most irregular and unsystematic."

Dressed in overalls and working shirts and wearing heavy leather gloves, sixteen women are working at the local shops of the Southern Pacific, sorting scrap iron. These women were put to work to fill the places of young men called to war. They were hired as an experiment but have been doing such good work that the crew will be retained permanently. The women range in ages from girls 16 and 17 to women 40 years old. They go to work at 7:30 in the morning along with the men and work until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. They are paid 22½ cents an hour.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., August 29—The Croix de Guerre has been conferred on the entire American ambulance corps, of which Captain Roland Speers of Santa Monica is leader, and Speers has been given the added honor of the Croix de Guerre with Palms by the French government, according to a letter received from Speers by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Speers of this place. The decorations were conferred July 4 amid a downpour of rain. Besides decorating the men, the American flag—which was carried by Speers and was the first American flag to be carried on the French battlefields—also was decorated.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., August 29.—Although Santa Monica but lately refused to be annexed to Los Angeles, when the voters defeated the annexation proposition at the polls, the prospects are that Santa Monica soon will have another annexation election—this time to do a little annexing of her own. The Santa Monica canyon wants to become a part of the city of Santa Monica, it is declared, and an election to decide the question is in the offing.

TROPICO, Cal., August 29.—Tropico's 1450 electors are at the polls to-day voting on the question of annexing the city to the city of Los Angeles. A similar proposition in Santa Monica was defeated a short time ago. When to-day's special election was called an effort to have the question of bonding the city for a water system failed.

nent pro tem.," as a Limerick native might put it. It seems that the fine quarters in the Glane building, 906 West Broadway, had been leased for three years and so could not be delivered as promised.

In a way, something as good or better was substituted, store room No. 318 South Brand boulevard, next door north of the Postoffice, and opposite the Palace Grand Theatre. Through the kindness of Mr. Walter Lenz, that building, with free water, is given to the Glendale Chapter of the Red Cross without cost, subject only to a possible sale, which the Los Angeles owner is not expecting. It has been arranged with other parties to pay the electric light and gas bill. Mr. McCrea has had the room thoroughly cleaned. Mr. Ezra Parker donated the use of a number of screens, counters and tables in a nearby store. The Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber Co. donated lumber for special tables, and arrangements are being made for chairs. A Sunset telephone was authorized to be ordered. It is thought that provision has been made by some one so that also will cost the Red Cross Chapter nothing.

Dr. Harrower was authorized to procure a large flag pole to extend out from the building far enough to display the big Red Cross flag arranged for, also without cost.

The new headquarters will be ready for occupancy to-morrow. Thursday afternoon, from two to five o'clock, during which time the knitting workers will be busy knitting under their faithful and efficient chairman, Mrs. George D. Carter, who has enlisted one hundred and sixty-three ladies to knit for the Glendale Chapter of the Red Cross. She, with relays of these knitters will be at the headquarters between 2 and 5 o'clock every Monday and Thursday, at which time also Mrs. Evans and her garment makers will be there, as well as materials for other garment workers. There will be plenty of yarn and needles and there is always more than work enough for all who can attend.

Mrs. Carter earnestly requests that more ladies will join the knitting phalanx, for the army reports show that knitted garments are considered of paramount importance in the trenches, or during the winter wherever the soldiers may be, busy or waiting in camp.

Mrs. Carter's workers have finished a large amount of knitted goods and have much more in process. The cost of wool has soared so high that yarn is yarn to-day. But satisfactory arrangements have been made to get all that our knitters can use, no matter how many workers lend a hand.

Mrs. W. E. Evans, chairman of sewed garment workers, was particularly missed last night, as was Mrs. Beamon, Chairman of Comfort Bags. Mrs. Beamon has been quite ill, but is recovering and expects to be at headquarters on Tuesday afternoons, between two and five, to continue the making of the much-needed and very comforting comfort bags.

Mrs. Tuffts, chairman on bandage making, reports that the price of that material also is going skyward, so much of it is needed. Mrs. Bartlett, chairman on purchasing supplies, was instructed to get a box of the material, which will make a great many bandages. Mrs. Tuffts hopes soon to have enough workers to keep the headquarters open every afternoon, except Sunday, for bandage work.

There is special need for sewing machines. Many such machines in Glendale are seldom used. Why not lend them to the Red Cross work to be sent home on demand. The Red Cross will bring and return the machines to their owners without cost, if and when desired. You who have machines can be of great help to the Red Cross by so loaning them. Why not notify the secretary, Mrs. Ocker, 200 South Central avenue, phone Sunset Glendale 918-J, or notify the headquarters. Even if the war should end to-morrow, there would still be need of such bandages for months to come. Think of the millions of wounded soldiers, sailors, with men, women and children all over those vast devastated areas. Your sewing machines would help relieve the sufferings of many. Can you resist the silent appeal—when it costs you nothing?

Dr. Harrower's motion was adopted, that the Glendale Chapter of the American Red Cross write to our Congressman Randall to get a law passed franking the Red Cross mail, since the people give the materials, do the work, and deliver it to the Government, it is only right that the Government carry Red Cross mail free.

Mr. Cowan's timely suggestion was adopted, that the Glendale Red Cross Chapter communicate with the proper persons to learn if anything can be done to give us relief from the high prices of wool, cotton, and gauze.

To-morrow, Thursday, afternoon, between two and five o'clock, there will be an informal "housewarming" at the Red Cross headquarters, 318 South Brand boulevard. Everybody invited to see the practical workers at work, and other things of interest, and to ask questions, and get acquainted generally. The Red Cross work is under good headway and is proving its practical efficiency, without one person connected with it getting any salary or other emolument. The work is all gratis, and many of Glendale's men and women, regardless of other interests, have done and are unselfishly doing noble and efficient work for the victims of the great world war. Of all those working for the large Los Angeles Chapter, only one stenographer, regularly employed, and the secretary, who devotes his whole time to it, get a salary. There never was so much hard, faithful and necessarily efficient work done without financial compensation. The Red Cross work is raising the human standard of unselfishness. The world will benefit by that alone, long after all the war flags are furled, for it will hasten the day when all humans will realize that they are brethren of one Father, and one fraternal community of nations. "So mote it be. So say we, all of us."

Love blinds some and it makes others too near sighted for the draft.

It takes two to make a quarrel, but dozens will volunteer to keep it alive.

CIVIC LOYALTY

As stated lately in the News, young Ronald Elrod with his brother Rollis, of Glendale, will go east on the Santa Fe, with which his father is connected, in Springfield, Mo. Since then Ronald called at the Chamber of Commerce to take a lot of the "Aloha" circulars for distribution among his eastern friends. He expects to get his great uncle, T. B. Greenwalt, of Flora, Ill., and others to come to Glendale from Flora, Ill., St. Louis and Olney, Ill., where he will visit his aunt. One of his near relatives, Asbury Greenwalt, is author of a deeply philosophical book, "Resident Forces of Life." Ronald has been corresponding with him also regarding Glendale as the most desirable home city in the west. Nearly every Glendalian might do that kind of commendable missionary work. It is a great favor to any person to be permitted to come to Glendale. Ronald will write to the Chamber of Commerce and tell the result of his missionary efforts.

ROBERT C. OGDEN'S "STEPPING STONES"

The late Robert C. Ogden, the well-known New York and Philadelphia business man and Presbyterian layman, had the ability to express himself in forceful, epigrammatic language. Since his recent death, attention has been called to a series of maxims entitled "Stepping Stones," which were practically the rules of his life. They are as follows:

Keep faith in humanity.

A man becomes what he most desires to be.

Do not mistake a prejudice for a principle.

Keep your intellectual and spiritual life bright.

Be energetic, wide-awake, pushing, but be patient.

The world wants men who are well equipped and worthy.

False witness may be given by a gesture or a grimace.

Honor womanhood if you would keep faith in humanity.

What a marvel of a business man's guide is the book of Proverbs!

The longer you live, if you live right, the less you will think of yourself.

Be true. Stand up and believe in yourself, then other people will believe in you.—The Continent.

HOW THE WORLD SLEEPS

Most people sleep on their sides, with knees drawn up.

Elephants always, and horses commonly, sleep standing up.

Birds, with the exception of owls and the hanging parrots of India, sleep with their heads turned tailward over the back, and the beak thrust among the feathers between the wing and the body.

Storks, gulls, and other long-legged birds sleep standing on one leg.

Ducks sleep on open water. To avoid drifting shoreward, they keep paddling with one foot, thus making them move in a circle.

Sloths sleep hanging by their four feet, the head tucked in between their forelegs.

Foxes and wolves sleep curled up, their noses and the soles of their feet close together, and blanketed by their bushy tails.

Hares, snakes, and fish sleep with their eyes wide open.

Owls, in addition to their eyelids, have a screen that they draw sideways across their eyes to shut out the light, for they sleep in the day time. —Canadian Churchman.

JUST BETWEEN FRIENDS

Of all the friends you have, don't you get the most comfort and satisfaction from the one who never disappoints you?

If she says she will meet you at one o'clock, you know you will see her at that time, and on the dot.

Her clothes seem to look fresher and crisper than those of your other friends.

Her smile is more ready and wholesome.

Her eyes are brighter and more expressive.

Her hands and feet are more trim and neat.

Blessed be the woman who has learned the value of time.

Most men, the successful ones at least, know the value of time.

It is all right to be "temperamental," but when it comes to keeping an engagement, forget temperament

It does not signify that you are popular and have a great many engagements just because you are careless in keeping those you make.

A woman should be as punctual as a man.

WAS WILLING TO GO TO SEA

At the time when William E. Chandler of New Hampshire was secretary of the navy Admiral Meade was commandant of the navy yard in Washington. They got into trouble somehow, these two positive gentlemen, and the commandant was summoned before the secretary one day on a matter of importance. The secretary told the commandant that if he kept on, or words to that effect, he should certainly be obliged to punish him by sending him to sea. "Mr. Secretary," said Meade, "I haven't anything to say except that when it is punishment for an officer of the navy to be ordered to sea, what is your service coming to? I should like to go to sea, sir. Good day."—Selected.

A GOOD KID STORY

Child—So you're my auntie?

Aunt—Yes, dear; I am your Aunt Nell, on your father's side.

Child—Well, you're on the wrong side; you'll find that out.

WON HER CASE

The Counselor—Do you object to your wife's spending all her time running women's clubs? The Judge—I did, but she overruled the objection and her mother sustained her on appeal.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A woman with little wit sat at a public meeting between a bishop and a rabbi.

She thought she would be clever, and said to the rabbi: "I feel as if I were a leaf between the Old and the New Testaments."

"Yes, madam," said the rabbi, that page is usually a blank one."—Ex.

"THE STUFF"

The test of a man is the fight that he makes,
The grit that he daily shows;
The way that he stands on his feet and takes
Fate's numerous bumps and blows.
A coward can smile when there's naught to fear,
When nothing his progress bars,
But it takes a man to stand up and cheer
While some other fellow stars.

It isn't the victory after all,
But the fight that a brother makes;
The man, who, driven against the wall,
Still stands up erect and takes
The blows of fate with his head held high,
Bleeding, and bruised, and pale,
Is the man who'll win in the by and by,
For he isn't the man to fail.

It's the bumps you get, and the jolts you get,
And the shocks that your courage stands,
The hours of sorrow and vain regret,
The prizes that escape your hands,
That test your mettle and prove your worth;
It isn't the blows you deal,
But the blows you take, on the good old earth,
That show if your stuff is real.

SPAGHETTI

Don't argue with your spaghetti. It don't do a bit of good. Not a bit, spaghetti is an obstinate, contrary food. You can't tell it a thing. You might as well try to reason with a plate of rattlesnakes.

There is more pure cussedness in ten yards of spaghetti than in any other product sold by the lineal foot, with the possible exception of noodles and barbed wire.

There's no excuse for spaghetti acting the way it does. Food can be rambunctious without being hateful. Head lettuce does it. Why can't spaghetti?

Something ought to be done about this. And something shall be. The time will come when some brave man will meet this temperamental Italian worm on its own ground and conquer it.

But so long as unfettered spaghetti is given the freedom of its dish there is no relief in sight.—Mystic Worker.

AS IT'S WHISTLED

"Your honor," informed the policeman, as he pointed to the prisoner, "he refused to rise while the band played 'The Star-Spangled Banner.'"

"I did not recognize the tune," explained the culprit hastily.

"Now, my dear man," said the judge sympathetically, "let me whistle it for you, so that hereafter you may distinguish it."

The judge whistled the melody and the prisoner listened intently. When his honor had finished the defendant exclaimed generously:

"Your honor, if the band had played the tune as you whistled it I would not be here to-day."

"Discharged!" interrupted the well-pleased judge.

"But the band would," concluded the man in an undertone as he hastily retired from the court room.—The Christian Herald.

THE FATAL NUMBER

The country had always been their home and probably always would be, consequently they were making the most of their first trip to the city. They did not know much about pictures, but they visited the art museum, where among other treasures they saw a mummy over which hung a card on which was printed "B. C. 97." They were mystified.

"What do you make of that, Jim?" said John.

"I don't know," said John, "but I should say it was the number of the car that killed him."—New York Times.

MIGHT TRY THIS, SISTERS

"I hate to go to the lodge to-night, dearie, but I am compelled to. It grieves me to think of you being here all alone."

"Oh, don't worry, honey, somebody may drop in."

Then he changed his mind when he got to the corner and came back. —Jacksonville Times-Union.

WHOLESALE COUPLING

There is a clergyman in an Ohio city who is very proud of his record as a marrying parson.

"Why, sir," said he to a Cincinnati man, who was visiting him, "I marry about fifty couples a week, right here in this parsonage!"

"Parsonage?" returned the Cincinnati man, "I should call it the Union Depot."—New York Times.

A tourist motoring in Ireland, and wishing to go to Dublin, came to a point where two unmarked roads diverged. Stopping his car, he called to a native by the roadside, "Pat, which is the road to Dublin?"

"How did you know my name was Pat?"

"O, I guessed at it."

"Well, you can guess the road to Dublin."

A REGIMENT PASSES

Eager, though half afraid, we stood along the street,
And, coming nearer, we heard the tramp of many marching feet;
We heard the thrilling beat of drums, the ringing sounds of cheers;
And some of us looked up and smiled and brushed away the tears!

Shopgirl and millionaire, we watched them as they came,
And some of us were white and crushed, and some were all aflame
With pride for them—our soldier boys—and some were cold with dread;
One woman stood with lifted chin, and one with drooping head.

Mother and new-made wife, together wistful-eyed—
One of them touched me with her hand, and "There goes Jim!" she cried.
From back of me there came a voice that, shaking, tried to say:
"Quick, darling, look at daddy—quick! Before he goes away!"

Sweetheart and maiden aunt, we watched the columns go;
Some souls were touched with more than hope, some heartbeats faltered slow;
And "Au revoir," one of us laughed, and" Dear, goodby-!" one sobbed;
And all about us, like a mist, the thrilling drumbeats throbbed.

Eager and dim of eye, we stood along the street,
And watched them as they wheeled from sight. The sound of marching feet
Came like an echo from afar, an echo drenched in fears;
And some of us looked up and smiled —but through a veil of tears!

STRING BEANS

Why can't a bean be a bean and let it go at that?

Most beans are beans, except string beans. But was the string bean satisfied to be just a bean? No. It had to grow a string and nearly ruin itself.

And why? Did it have any practical idea in mind when it did it? Has any string bean ever justified its string? No. It just did it because it could.

A string bean can be denatured after its back is broken so that it's almost fit to eat. But give a dish of them a chance at a cheap restaurant or when your wife's in a hurry and see what it does to you. It'll tongue-tie you, that's what it'll do.

Shrilling loudly in the silence of the night, says Answers, the chemist's bell roused him from slumber. With reluctance he wrapped himself in a dressing gown and went downstairs, shivering, to be met at the door by a placid-looking man who wanted a bottle of soda water.

The chemist's feelings were strong, but he resolved to do business.

"Twopence extra on the bottle," he murmured, blandly, "which will be allowed on return."

Then he returned to bed.

Two hours later the bell rang again. Once more he went down. Again it was the placid-looking man.

"There's your bottle," he said, calmly. "Gimme my tuppence."

WHEN FRANKLIN WAS A "LOAFER"

Ben Franklin entered Philadelphia with the historic hunk of bread under his arm. While sitting on the curb, a citizen approached. "Are thee having a vacation, sir?" inquired the citizen.

"No, sir," replied Ben, nibbling at the bread, "only a loaf."

AS PER MOSES'S LAW

Neighbor (looking over the fence at boy with lawn mower)—"Why on earth don't you oil that machine? It makes a horrible noise."

Boy—"Mother told me not to till you got your pianner tuned."

THE RESOURCEFUL MAN

"The doctor says I must cut out cigars, alcohol and late hours.

"That means a decided change in your mode of living."

"It means nothing of the kind, Arabella. It simply means that I change doctors."—Browning's Magazine.

MIRING

The lady had just been introduced to her partner at a holiday dance and was talking to him vivaciously. "Tell me," she said, "who is that terribly homely man over there?"

The gentleman looked. "That," he said ponderously, "is my brother."

"Oh!" gasped the lady in horrified amazement. "Pardon me. Really, I hadn't noticed the resemblance."

AN ACCOMPLISHED MINISTER

Church service was over and three prominent members walked home together, discussing the sermon.

"I tell you," said the first enthusiastically, "Doctor Blank can certainly dive deeper into the truth than any preacher I ever heard!"

"Y-es," said the second man, "and he can stay under longer."

"Yes," said the third, "and come up drier."

A very stout lady at the zoological gardens was seeing the lions fed for the first time, and was rather surprised by the limited amount of meat that was given them.

"That seems to me to be a very small piece of meat for the lion," she said to the attendant.

The man looked at the good lady's more than ample girth with a judicially appraising eye.

"It may seem a small piece, indeed, to you, mum," he said, "but it's heaps for the lion."—Classmate.

Father—"Upon my word, you children are getting too dainty for anything. Jam and butter on the same piece of bread, indeed! Why, when I was your age I was glad enough to get dry bread to eat."

Robert—"You have a much better time living with us, don't you father?"—National Monthly.

Mrs. Cornell gave a luncheon, and observing that one of the guests had eaten all her portion of ice cream, she said:

"My dear Miss Lane, do let me give you some more of the ice cream."

"Well, thanks," said the young woman; "I will take some more, but only just a mouthful, please."

"Hilda," said Mrs. Cornell to her maid, "fill Miss Lanes' plate."

A splendid story is being told of a French officer before Verdun. When a company of soldiers were nearly dying of thirst there remained just a little water in one of the bottles, but the officer to whom it was offered refused to drink, saying: "The gun wants water more than I do." Then he poured the water on the gun to cool it, and went on firing until relief came.

"He is one of those near-vegetarians."

"What is a near vegetarian."

"He never eats meat except when he is invited out."—Houston Post.

The goose had been carved and everybody had tasted it. It was excellent. The negro minister, who was the guest of honor, could not restrain his enthusiasm.

"Dat's as fine a goose as I evah see, Bruddah Williams," he said to his host. "Whar did you git such a fine goose?"

"Well, now, Pahson," replied the carver of the goose exhibiting great dignity and reticence, "when you preaches a speshul good sermon I never axes you whar you got it. I hopes you will show me de same consideration."

A GREAT CHANCE FOR BURBANK

"Here's something for Burbank to try his hand on," said a man to his neighbor.

"What's that?"

"Training a Christmas tree to sprout its own Christmas presents." —Selected.

Customer—"How's your business?"

Merchant—"O, variable! Over in the mattress section it's so quiet you can hear the bed ticking, but here in the towels we're so busy you can't hear the crash."

"My fortune is made."

"How so?"

TO BE SURE

"We can all do something to help."

"Yes, those who can't do anything else can sit back and advise the rest."
